Also present during the interview were Deputy Scott Williams and Lt. Shaun Embleton, both of whom work for the Warren County Sheriff's Office. In the late evening of June 17, 2023, Fox assisted the Lebanon (Warren County) Police Department with an armed individual [Dione Kellum] in the 400 block of East Mulberry Street who had repeatedly ignored command from officers to drop two weapons. Kellum was shot by officers, but ultimately succumbed to a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Kellum refused to listen to commands from officers who had requested he stop and drop the weapons. officers attempted to talk Kellum down, Kellum discharged the pistol into the ground. Agent Ward asked Fox if he observed Kellum discharge the handgun, but Fox only heard the handgun discharge.

Deputy Fox stated officers continued to talk with Kellum to drop the weapons. Kellum began to shine a flashlight at the officers and then stopped. Shortly thereafter, Fox heard a second gunshot followed by two additional gunshots. Fox moved from his position and observed Kellum on the ground and discharge the handgun into his head. Fox learned later Kellum shot the shotgun into the ground and the two shots came from and the Lebanon officer. Fox explained the sequence of shots as follows: Kellum discharged the handgun into the ground and after a break, discharged the shotgun into the ground, a final gunshot. The only shot(s) observed by Fox was the self inflicted gunshot. Fox approached Kellum and kicked the handgun away while another officer removed the long gun. Fox observed Deputy discharge his rifle, but did not see where the round impacted and only heard the Lebanon officer discharge his weapon. Fox assisted the medics who had staged in the area during the incident and stated the life saving aid was rendered quickly. Other than agonal breathing by Kellum, he did not make any statements.
