

Ohio Attorney General Mike DeWine's Human Trafficking Awareness Campaign

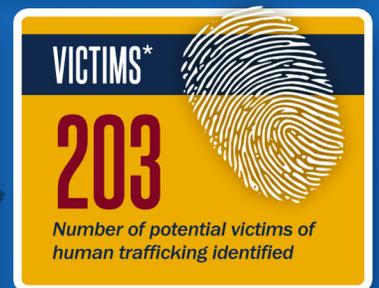

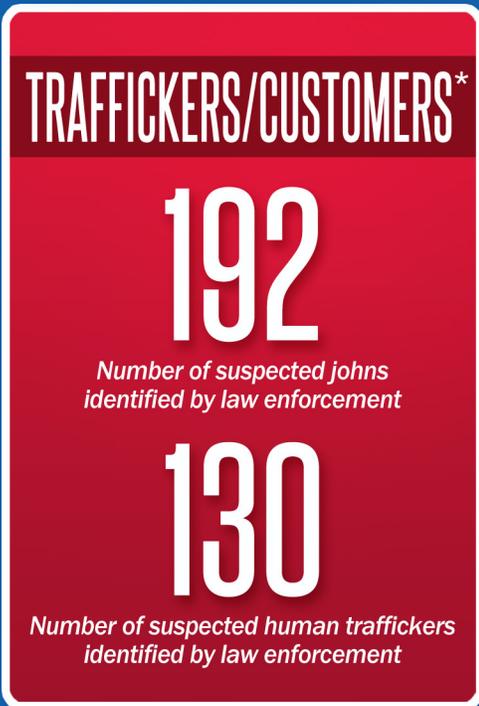

Because human trafficking is a concern in Ohio and throughout the United States, Attorney General DeWine and Cuyahoga County's Collaborative to End Human Trafficking are working together to raise awareness about the signs of human trafficking. The Human Trafficking Happens Here Too campaign, to be featured during the Republican National Convention, is designed to educate visitors about the signs of human trafficking.

Attorney General Mike DeWine at the "Our Children Are Not For Sale" Conference where he took part in a panel discussion about efforts to combat child sex trafficking.

The new www.HappensHereToo.org website will provide residents and visitors with detailed information on how to identify human trafficking and how to get help. The message will be displayed:

- On billboards.
- At the Cleveland Hopkins International Airport.
- In Cleveland Regional Transit Authority Buses.

*"Ohio Attorney General's Office 2015 Human Trafficking Commission Annual Report"