SA Smith interviewed Senior Sales Associate Jonathan Irish in a back office area at Range USA.

Mr. Irish has worked for Range USA for approximately a year and has completed somewhere between five hundred but less than a thousand firearm sales.

Mr. Irish showed SA Smith the ATF form 4473, where his signature indicated he completed the background check from beginning to end. Mr. Irish did not believe Ms. Weems was in the store for more than an hour. Mr. Irish stated that Ms. Weems found the used Taurus G2C that she was interested in and made her purchase. SA Smith asked about the Hornady Defense Ammunition that was sold along with the firearm. Mr. Irish stated that he asks the customer what they intend to do with the firearm (target shooting vs. home defense) and recommends ammunition based on the customer's response.

SA Smith asked Mr. Irish if he had ever denied a customer from purchasing a firearm based on the customer's behavior. Mr. Irish stated that it happens frequently for any number of reasons and that the protocol is to have another associate interact with the customer for a second opinion, if there is reason to question the customer's behavior. There was nothing about Ms. Weems behavior to raise any questions. The only thing that stuck out to Mr. Irish was that Ms. Weems was specifically looking for a Taurus.

The interview was concluded at 1418 hours.
